Last year, I visited three amazing museums where I learned many different things about the past and technology.

The Jordan Museum (Amman, Jordan): This museum displays ancient objects from Jordan's history. I saw famous statues that are around 9,000 years old, some of the oldest ever made, and found them amazing.

Shanghai Museum of Science and Technology (Shanghai, China): This museum was perfect for me because I love science and technology. I explored modern technology and Chinese inventions from hundreds of years ago. My visit included a science workshop on robot design and watching a fantastic film about space exploration.

Natural History Museum (London, England): At this museum, I saw a T-Rex and a blue whale and learned about plants and volcanoes. The most exciting part was an earthquake simulation, where the floor of a room shook, teaching me what an earthquake feels like.
